

TWO PLEA NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE OF JEWEL THEFT

Indicted on a charge of larceny involving the theft from a jewelry company, on January 3 last, of about $5,000 worth of jewelry, Richard A. Luskey and Mary Hansbury, otherwise known as Mary Luskey, plead not guilty before Justice Stafford.

Luskey, who is fifty-two years old and lives at 607 New Jersey avenue, was arrested on February 5 by Detectives Baur and Sweeney. He was formerly employed by the Adams Express Company. The articles were recovered by the detectives from a sewer at First and I streets north-west, and were in a tin box which contained about 200 pieces, including principally diamond rings.

When Detective Baur arrested Luskey he says he saw him place a diamond ring under the covering of a bed and that it proved to bear the scratch marks of one of the rings in a package which disappeared from a car of the Adams Express Company here.

According to the detectives, when the ring was found in Luskey's house further investigation showed that the accused had pawned two rings in Baltimore and that the Hansbury woman had attempted to sell several in this city.

Luskey, who is represented by Attorney L. G. Grossman, was put through a severe grueling at detective headquarters February 4 and police officials allege that Luskey admitted to them that he stole the package from the express company's car January 3. He gave up his job a week later, the detectives say.

Luskey, the detectives said, told them he found the package lying on the floor of the express company's car and that he thrust it in his pocket without knowing what it contained.

CAPTURE CONVICT 7 MONTHS AFTER ESCAPE FROM VAN

Willie Wells, colored, thirty-five years old, who seven months ago escaped from the prison van while being conveyed from the District reformatory at Occoquan, Va., to the jail here, was captured today on the Bladensburg road by Headquarters Detective Beckley.

It was only after Beckley fired two shots from his service revolver that Wells, who fled when he saw the detective, surrendered and permitted Beckley to handcuff him. He is now locked up at First precinct police station pending his transfer to Occoquan, where he was serving a nine-month sentence for "flim-flamming" a negro out of money.

Wells admitted this morning to Inspector of Detectives Grant that his escape from the van was the result of a clever ruse. Just before he was sentenced there was a big fur robbery in Washington. Wells told the authorities he knew the thieves, and also where the stolen furs were. He said he would tell him where to go. District attorney is taken to the District jail. He admitted today he knew nothing of the fur robbery, and that the ruse was planned by him so he could escape from the van.

Since his escape, Wells has been "following the race," he said. He won $500 in Baltimore last week, he said, playing craps, losing all of it yesterday at the local racetrack.

After his escape from the van, Wells said he went to the Goldfield Hotel, Baltimore, established by the late Joe Gans. Wells told how he fooled two Baltimore detectives who went to the hotel to arrest him.

"I saw them first," Wells declared, "and I crouched down in a dumb elevator and reaching the second floor made my escape down the fire escape."

CLEMENCEAU CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS FOR ALLIES

PARIS, April 3.—Premier Clemenceau is enthusiastic and full of confidence today over the outlook and prospects for success of the Allied forces, following his visit to the front yesterday, when he was under fire and came near having his automobile blown up by a German shell. When one shell exploded within a few yards of his machine, all the windows were broken, but the premier escaped without injury.

BOLO APPEAL DENIED.

PARIS, April 3.—The appeal of Bolo Pasha from the death sentence of the court, which convicted him of treason, has been denied.
